The third installment of the Department of Orthopaedic Surgery's Alumni Day and Golf Outing was another success. The day started out with a continental breakfast, at the Center Square Golf Club, followed by the Penn Alumni Lecture given by Christopher T. Born, M.D. '84. Dr. Born's lecture on the management of proximal femoral fractures was well received.

Following the lecture, twelve foursomes competed in a scramble format tournament. Represented were five local alumni from the orthopaedic residency, many current faculty members and residents. The tournament came down to the final hole, when the team of Dr. Brian Sennett, Bobbiann Sennett, Todd Michener, and David Pedowitz birdied the final hole to record the win. The longest drive was recorded by orthopaedic intern Todd Michener, and the closest to the pin was won by third year resident Robert Carrigan.

After the conclusion of the tournament participants enjoyed food and beverages overlooking the golf course. It was a good time for current faculty and past alumni to get reacquainted. All who participated considered the tournament another success.
